Group Cases:

Throughout the course cases will be assigned. The cases should be prepared in a group, which should consist of no more than 4 people. In completing the cases, assume the Partner of the firm that has given you employment will review your output. The report should evidence that you have thought through all financial reporting and auditing issues and have properly balance the interests of all stakeholders affected by your decisions. In addition, your report should communicate effectively by avoiding grammatical and spelling errors. The cases are available in the Principles of Auditing Custom Case Book created for this course.

Class Participation and Preparedness:

This class is lecture and case-based and highly interactive. In order to get the most benefit from the course, class attendance is mandatory. Students should complete assigned readings prior to class so they are able to participate and contribute to class discussions.

Credit for class preparedness and participation will be assigned at the instructor's discretion. Quizzes will periodically be administered throughout the course. These quizzes are not a formal part of student evaluation, but they will be used as a tool for the instructor in assigning credit for class preparedness and participation.

Class Attendance / Make-Ups:

Class policies regarding attendance make-up assignments are intended to be consistent with university policies. If a class policy conflicts with UF attendance policies, then UF policy will be followed: <https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/attendance.aspx>.

Unexcused absences negatively impact student assessments. Class participation and exams that are missed due to unexcused absences cannot be made-up. Unexcused absences have a negative impact on the assessment of a student's class participation.

A make-up exam or assignment extension will be given when the student has a valid verifiable reason. In general, acceptable reasons for absence from or failure to participate in class include illness, serious family emergencies, special curricular requirements (e.g., judging trips, field trips, professional conferences), military obligation, severe weather conditions, religious holidays, and participation in official university activities such as music performances, athletic competition or debate. Absences from class for court-imposed legal obligations (e.g., jury duty or subpoena) must be excused. Other reasons also may be approved.

Students should discuss absences with the professor in advance. Absences that conflict with an exam should be communicated at least 10 days prior to an exam. Students with emergencies and planned absences should make use of Dean of Students Office Care Program. Information provided to the instructor through the Care Program will be taken under consideration, but does not guarantee an absence will be excused. Absences will be evaluated on a case by case basis. For more information on the Care Program, visit: <https://www.dso.ufl.edu/care/courtesy-letters/>.

Honesty:

Academic dishonesty will not be tolerated. Students are required to know and comply with the university's policy on academic honesty. This policy is detailed in the Undergraduate Catalog and by reference is included in this course syllabus. For more information, visit: <https://www.dso.ufl.edu/sccr/process/student-conduct-honor-code/>

UF students are bound by The Honor Pledge which states, "We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honor and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code. On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: "On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment."

The Honor Code specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Furthermore, you are obligated to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to appropriate personnel. If you have any questions or concerns, please consult with the instructor or Student Assistants in this class.

Civility:

This course will be conducted in a courteous and professional manner. Inappropriate classroom behavior of any form will not be tolerated. At the instructor's discretion, students acting in an uncivil manner will receive a grade reduction commensurate with the infraction. Students can be withdrawn from the course for excessive unacceptable behavior.

Course Evaluation:

Students are expected to provide feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing online evaluations at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu>. Evaluations are typically open during the last two or three weeks of the semester, but students will be given specific times when they are open. Summary results of these assessments are available at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu/results/>.

Disabilities:

Students with disabilities requesting accommodations should first register with the Disability Resource Center (352-392-8565, www.dso.ufl.edu/drc/) by providing appropriate documentation. Once registered, students will receive an accommodation letter which must be presented to the instructor when requesting accommodation. Students with disabilities should follow this procedure as early as possible in the semester.
