The Bergstrom Center for Real Estate Studies at the University of Florida has been cultivating the exchange of education and information among real estate researchers, academics, students and industry leaders for more than 30 years. The Center was named after Kelley A. Bergstrom, who in 2006 created an endowment to support the Center for years to come.

FROM THE CENTER’S EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Dr. Wayne Archer

Does it sound like a broken record when we report another great year with the Bergstrom Center for Real Estate Studies? Maybe like a no-hitter, we shouldn’t talk about it, but I’ll take that risk! First, consider some important metrics for the Center: Support of our student academic programs, support of placement for graduates, support of academic research in real estate, support of industry information, expansion of recognition for the Center and the academic programs, and, finally, maintenance of a sound financial position. The last year has again brought us solid hits in all of these areas.

What has the Center (and the Advisory Board) done for our students this last year? In addition to the Board Retreat and the Trends and Strategies Conference, both powerful interfaces of our students with Advisory Board members and the industry, there has been another excellent harvest of individual exchanges between Board members and the students. We had a superb series of Ring lectures this year, and six of the 10 guests were either Advisory Board members or were identified through Board relationships. Advisory Board resources were once again involved in staging and funding the highly successful MSRE trip to Santiago, Chile.

Once again, Advisory Board members served in irreplaceable roles in the classroom, providing approximately a dozen live cases and Capstone projects. In addition are the dozens upon dozens of mentoring contacts, both formal and informal, that Advisory Board members have provided to our students. Finally, some 58 percent of our graduating students have accepted positions in firms of our Advisory Board members.

What about support for academic research?

This year saw publication of the special edition of the Journal of Real Estate Finance and Economics that was the final product from the Joint UF/FSU Symposium for Critical Issues in Real Estate conducted by the Center in 2012. And, in March, we repeated this symposium in highly-successful fashion; now we expect another special issue of research findings to be published in 2015. In addition to funding the Symposium, the Center has been able to set aside more than $20,000 to support research projects of the faculty this year, and going into the future.

In industry informational functions the momentum continued. The Trends and Strategies Conference was the largest ever, with 440 registrants, and some 50 turned away due to limited space. The Advisory Board Retreat also was well-attended and highly effective. Finally, regional meetings under the auspices of the Center continue to be very important, with more than 25 separate gatherings during the year.

Recognition of the Center and our real estate programs is a hard thing to measure, but there are ample positive indicators of progress. Our Director, Tim Becker, has made sure that we have a presence in numerous major industry events, including the National ULI meetings, the National ICSC meetings, the Akerman U.S. Real Estate Summit, the CBRE Multi-family Conference, and the Florida ULI and ICSC meetings. At the Florida ICSC Convention, the Center’s annual reception moved to a larger venue to accommodate the growing number of participants. On the academic side, one sign of the growing recognition of our activity was that for the 10 slots in our Symposium this year we received 36 research paper submissions from scholars around the world, and from among the most prestigious of universities.

Finally, what about the financial health of the Center? Thanks to the remarkably loyal and steady support of our Advisory Board through the Great Recession, our membership and contributions have continued strong. Not only have we been able to support a growing budget, more than $650,000 this year, but we have been able to build a very healthy reserve that puts us in the position to address serious new initiatives in the months and years ahead. To quote Frank Sinatra, “It was a very good year!”

FROM THE ADVISORY BOARD’S CHAIRMAN

A quick glance on the Center’s website directly addresses its focus on three things — education, research, and leadership. As I reflect over the past year, our Advisory Board has certainly played a key role in fostering this mission.

Some of the highlights were:

- Two of our members helped judge the annual MSRE Capstone competition between the students, sharing their thoughts on the presentations of each of the teams;
- Nine members returned to campus to teach case studies;
- Four other members each spoke at our Alfred A. Ring Distinguished Speakers Series;
- A particular highlight was the success of our Trends and Strategies Conference, held in February 2014 in Orlando. Led by Chairman Doug Irmscher, the conference sold out once again, exceeding 440 attendees. Our Board Members stepped up to new heights, raising over $100,000 in sponsorship support.
- And, finally, over 80 of our members participated in student mentoring, taking time to share their wisdom and offer advice and encouragement. This is often cited by the students each year as being a major reason for selecting Florida to pursue their studies.

I want to thank each Board Member for your continued financial support, as well as your valuable time. I urge you to continue with this commitment.

I also want to thank Dr. Ling, Dr. Archer, and Dr. Malone, as well as Director Tim Becker and his staff for the outstanding job they do in support of the Center each year.

Through all of our mutual efforts I’m confident that we all will continue to make the University of Florida one of the premier real estate programs in the country.

REAL ESTATE CASE STUDIES COURSE

Our Real Estate Case Studies course, which runs the length of the 10-month program, is designed to expose MSRE students to industry professionals, leadership, ethics, and numerous other real estate topics. They met a number of recent MSRE graduates, CRES Advisory Board members, and other real estate professionals. Career planning and strategies were also discussed. This year, the topics our students encountered included:

- Personal Leadership— Nathan S. Collier, Chairman & Founder, The Collier Companies
- Ethics in Business— A Panel Discussion: Ron Wheeler, CEO, The Sembler Company; Rachel Wein, Principal, Wein + Associates; Ted Starkey, SVP, Wells Fargo
- Career Strategies— John Crossman, CEO, Crossman & Company
- Score Communications— John Sanna, President, Score! Communications LLC
- Community Land Use Game (CLUG)
- Joint Venture Documents— Rich Bezold, Chair, National Real Estate, Akerman
- Lease Negotiation— Keith Schantz, Regional Real Estate Director, TJX Companies; Steve Messing, President, Kitson & Partners
- Retail Case Study— Scott MacLaren, President of North Carolina Operations, Stiles Corporation
- Hotel Case Study— Daniel Peek, Senior Managing Director/Head of the Hospitality Practice Group, HFF

The Community Land Use Game (CLUG) is a teaching tool designed around a team (development company) activity focused on the challenges of business strategy, city management and community building. Originally developed in the 1960s by University of Michigan professor of urban planning Allan Feldt, CLUG has since been played by thousands of students, public officials and civic groups.

Our intention of playing the game is to provide a participatory framework to teach the core principles of land use theories, especially central place theory. The game consists of multiple companies/teams operating across several development activities including housing, retail and industrial, that culminates with a “winner” who did the best job maximizing their company’s wealth. No one team can afford to operate in all development sectors and must negotiate with other firms to mutually progress, resulting in high team interdependency.

Current fundraising efforts are under way to modernize this game. The Bergstrom Center seeks to translate the original, 2-dimensional board game still in use today into an adaptive electronic game format that will speed the game’s information flow and give players (students) a clearer view of the action. Ultimately, the purpose for this project is to make the already well-established CLUG game an even more relevant and powerful professional learning tool.

What contributing factors led to your team’s success in winning the game?

“Following through with verbal agreements and engaging in deals that were fair to all helped us to establish goodwill and to gain repeat business. In addition, the timely lending of money allowed us to create profit over the long run while creating business that would not have happened otherwise.”

Blake Evans
MSRE 2014

COMMUNITY LAND USE GAME
The International Real Estate Study Tour has quickly become a highlight of our MSRE program. Started in August 2012, Professor David Ling and Bergstrom Center Director Tim Becker continue to lead MSRE students to Santiago, Chile, for seven days. This trip gives students real-world experience in understanding international investment in real estate.

- Who the students represent: A theoretical US Pension Fund, who is actively looking to expand their real estate investment portfolio internationally.
- Subject property: Territoria El Bosque in Santiago, Chile.
- Lessons learned: Market forces, governmental influences, legal issues, capital requirements in international locations.
- Met with: Universidad de los Andes ESE School of Business, MetLife, Carey y Cia Law Firm, Banco Estado, Chilean Ministry of Housing and Urbanism, Territoria, Independencia Asset Management, Cencosud.
- Upon return: Students underwrite a potential investment in the property, evaluating the various risk factors and then make a presentation to the pension fund investment committee with team recommendations. An investment committee including Professor Ling, Tim Becker and Advisory board member Andy Hogshead score the teams.

How does an international trip help our MSRE students gain perspective on real estate in the world market?

“The structure of the project and the international element force them to approach the project from the ground up — with fresh eyes. While the principles are the same, their interconnections are different. To succeed, students must approach their project in ways they are not accustomed to, which sparks their creativity and drives home the analytical framework of the coursework.”

Andy Hogshead
CEO, The Collier Cos.

The Nathan S. Collier Master of Science in Real Estate students conclude the degree program with a challenging, real world market value scenario called the Capstone Project. The projects are typically provided by our UF Advisory Board Members. This year’s capstone project and MSRE competition was supplied and supported by Ram Realty Services. We are grateful to Ram’s Chief Executive Officer, Mr. Casey Cummings, and Chief Investment Officer, Mr. Jim Stine, for providing this unique opportunity.

The capstone project focused on Ram Realty Partners III LP (the “Fund”). This is the third real estate private equity fund raised by Ram. The specific focus of the capstone project was two properties: a grocery anchored shopping center and a 360 unit apartment complex.

Working in six groups of five students, the students were required to:

- “Abstract” two of the existing shopping center leases and calculate the effective level rental rate (ELR) for these leases.
- Perform a Fund-level cash flow/waterfall/IRR analysis under the assumption that the two properties were the only properties owned by the Fund.
- Estimate the market value of both properties and provide a report. Each group summarized and defended its valuation conclusions and methodology in a 15-minute PowerPoint presentation to a panel of judges that included Mr. Don Emerson, Mr. Todd Jones, Mr. Tim Becker, and Professor David Ling.
- Act as part of Ram’s acquisition team for the Fund and make a presentation to a panel of judges acting as Ram’s investment committee. The panel was led by Mr. Stine with support from Ram employees Jeff McCammon (MSRE ’09) and Adam Errington (MSRE ’12). During these presentations, each student team defended its recommendation to the investment committee.

2013 Advisory Board Retreat in Gainesville, FL

JOHN CROSSMAN
President, Crossman and Company

John Crossman was named an Honorary Alumnus at the 2014 Trends and Strategy conference. The University of Florida Alumni Association defines an Honorary Alumnus as a person who has evidenced an interest in, or who has rendered outstanding service to the University and who has been elected by the Board of Directors of the Association for this distinction. The Center nominated him because of his involvement and volunteerism for our Center and constant promotion of the real estate industry through media, speeches, and student support.

RICH BEZOLD
Chair, National Real Estate, Akerman

Rich Bezold was named our Alumnus of the Year at the 2014 Trends and Strategy conference. The Center awards this yearly to friends of the Bergstrom Center. Bezold is the constant promotion of the real estate industry and advocate, financial supporter, and friend of the Bergstrom Center.

JIM STINE
CIO, RAM Realty Services

Why do you choose to be active in interacting with our MSRE students? What have you learned or observed through working with them?

“I believe that the real value proposition in the program for the students is the opportunity to meet and work with members of the advisory board and if you’re going to be a member of the board you should commit some of your time to interacting with the students. I’ve met some really good bright people (students) over the years as a result of my involvement so it really is a mutually beneficial relationship between the board members and students.”

NICK BANKS
Managing Director, Front Street Commercial Real Estate Group

What have you gained from your relationship with the Bergstrom Center?

“Being a local company in Gainesville, we benefit greatly from our relationship with the Bergstrom Center. We have a robust internship program which not only helps students gain valuable real life experience, but it provides Front Street with truly valuable talent which we utilize in a very practical way.”

Why do you come back to UF to talk to the development class?

“It’s always exciting for me to come into the classroom and witness the passion and energy of our MSRE students. Their creative ideas, insightful questions and energy always invigorate me. Having the chance to come back now and speak to the students is an honor.”

2013–2014 BERGSTROM COUNCIL

The Bergstrom Council is made up of active contributors who donate their time and money to the Center. They grow their own professional network in their region by hosting dinners, workshops, social events and professional development opportunities to promote growth in the real estate industry.

Each year, the Bergstrom Center hosts an annual two-day retreat exclusively for Advisory Board members. 2014 INDUCTEE: JORGE PEREZ

This year, the Bergstrom Center welcomed Jorge Perez, Chairman, CEO & Founder of the Related Group, to the growing list of distinguished individuals who have helped transform the real estate industry in a positive way. Mr. Perez has been at the forefront of South Florida's urban evolution, often being the first developer to enter merging or undiscovered neighborhoods.
REGIONAL EVENTS

Our Bergstrom Councils across the state continue to be active, hosting events that connect and educate, while promoting the real estate industry and the relationship each Council holds with the Bergstrom Center. Here are just a few highlights:

Meeting of the Minds, May 22; Tampa Bay region: Over 160 Tampa Bay area real estate professionals gathered at Palma Ceia Golf & Country Club in Tampa for cocktails and dinner to hear from a high-powered panel of regional industry executives.

5th Annual Scholarship Golf Tournament presented by Auction.com: The 5th Annual Scholarship Golf Tournament hosted 65 players at the Club at Emerald Hills in Hollywood, FL to raise money for our MSRE scholarship fund. Tournament organizer, Mike Narula, said, “Everyone always has a good time coming out to play golf, and supporting the program.” A big thanks goes out to Advisory Board member Howard Fabian for providing dinner from Bonefish Mac’s restaurants.

What value does the Council hold for participants?

“In addition to networking & professional exposure, the Jacksonville Bergstrom Council adds value by providing quarterly programs with educational content to keep our donors informed of the current market trends and how they affect different aspects of corporate real-estate. Our goal for the next year is to continue growing a thriving council and to start a scholarship fund.”
