

What are you doing for Spring Break?

March 7th – 15th, 2009

Why not try a Fashion Tour in the Big Apple?

In recent years, the David F. Miller Retail Center for Retailing Education and Research has hosted a retail tour in New York City. Next year it could be you. The New York trip was designed to help students grasp what the Retail world is all about. While in New York, students are able to meet with corporate executives and get a behind the scenes look at many corporations through guided tours of designer showrooms, stores, and famous publications. Tours in the past have included:

- Brown Shoe
- Macy's
- Build-A-Bear
- Liz Claiborne
- Women's Wear Daily (WWD)
- Saks Fifth Avenue
- Walking tour of SOHO
- Walking tour of Times Square
- Famous Footwear

Although this may not seem like your typical spring break, I assure you it will be fun. Despite what you might think this trip is great no matter what your major might be. As a student, this trip will allow you to network yourself and open the door to new opportunities such as internships, or even just mere contacts in the industry. You are able to have free time to yourself to do as you please while still receiving the instruction needed to benefit your career. If you are interested in this trip please attend our first meeting on Tuesday, October 7th at 4:00 in Bryan 201C.

The estimated cost of this trip with airfare, hotel, city transportation and food is $1,200.
