

2005 PURC/Askew Water Conference

March 31-April 1, 2005

"How Should Florida's Water Supply be Managed in Response to Growth?"

Program Brochure | Askew Report | Photos | Agenda

Suggested Reading:

Avoiding a Water Crisis in Florida: How Should Florida's Water Supply be Managed in Response to Growth?

Lynne Holt

Conference Presentations:

Florida's Water Planning Challenges

Dr. J. Walter Milon, Provost's Distinguished Research Professor, Department of Economics, University of Central Florida

Water Management Planning Roundtable

Dr. Joseph Delfino, Professor of Environmental Engineering, UF

Planning for Water Supply

Mr. Thomas Swihart, Administrator, Office of Water Policy, Florida Dept. of Environmental Protection

The Politics of Water Supply Planning and Allocation

Dr. Lance deHaven-Smith, Professor of Public Administration & Policy, Reubin O'D. Askew School of Public Administration & Policy, Florida State University

Environmental Constraints on Water Supplies under the Florida Water Resources Act

Dr. Richard Hamann, Associate Director, Center for Governmental Responsibility, Levin College of Law, UF

Environmental Constraints

Mr. Eric T. Olsen, Attorney, Hopping Green & Sams P.A.

Case Study: How the S.W. Florida Water Management District has addressed Growth Demand and Environmental Constraints for Water Planning

Mr. David Moore, Executive Director, Southwest Florida Water Management District

How Should Florida's Water Supply be Managed in Response to Growth? An International Perspective

Mr. Paul Reiter, Executive Director, International Water Association

Complexity, Confusion and Complacency in Water Supply Management

Dr. Sanford Berg, Distinguished Service Professor, University of Florida Department of Economics, and Director of Water Studies, Public Utility Research Center (PURC), UF

Florida's Water Supply Story Distilled: Cutting through the Rhetoric of Water Supply in the Sunshine State

Ms. Cynthia Barnett, Knight Wallace Fellow in Journalism, University of Michigan; Associate editor, Florida Trend Magazine

The State of Water in the Tampa Bay Region

Ms. Paula Dye, Chief Environmental Planner, Tampa Bay Water

Presentations by Christine Klein and Victoria Tshinkel are not posted by request.